DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1,2,4 and 6 recite the limitation "the architectural process" in the preamble of each. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

In claim 5 is the limitation, "...comprises Industry Foundation Class tags."

It is improper to use Trademarked or copyright names as a limitation in a claim as the meaning of such Trademarked names can change at the decision of the Trademark holder and thus, change the scope of the claim.

Note: For examination purposes, it will be assumed that the limitation "Industry Foundation Class tags" means, "industry accepted tags".

Claim 3 is rejected as depending on a rejected claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US PAT 6,023,702 to Leisten et al. (Leisten).

As to claims 1, Leisten discloses a system for managing a process, that could be architectural (fig 5), with data entry means (keyboard), at least one attribute information storage means (database, abstract, lines 2-5), from which a user-selected attribute is identified (col 11, line 64), each attribute having a unique identifier and data associated with it (inherent else there would be no way to distinguish between attributes), a graphical user interface (1025), with a filter for providing filtered data (col 11, lines 65-67), the database stores the information (1003), automated selection means for incorporating the data (col 11, lines 64-67, claim 2), generation means for creating the aspect of the contract document (claim 4).

As to claim 2, Leisten discloses the system as discussed above. Leisten further discloses a remote attribute information storage means (individual workstations, 1021-1026).

As to claim 3, Leisten discloses means for tracking a project (103).

As to claim 4, Leisten further discloses a generation means for creating the digital file (computer), searching means for querying the database (inherent in that databases are necessarily queried else the information stored therein could not be retrieved).

As to claim 6, Leisten discloses the data as being associated with an architectural specification (fig 5).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 5, as best understood, is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leisten.

Leisten discloses a system as discussed above. Leisten does not, however, specifically teach using industry accepted tags. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use industry accepted tags as these are generally widely used and would allow users knowledgeable in the industry to use common terms.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US PAT 6,944,622 to Mitchell et al. discloses a system for managing a project.
